

ELECTRONICS

---

Do you want to build computers from the ground up or repair broken computers and networks? Do you like the idea of working with low-voltage wiring and cabling? At Mt. SAC, our hands-on degree and certificate programs in these areas prepare you for various types of high-paying careers in electronics for various industries, including computer and networking companies, home and business security systems, cable providers, home theaters, and others.

Select options in left navigation for information about individual programs.
Electronics and Computer Technology Website (<http://www.mtsac.edu/electronics/>)